

Theology on Tap

Theology on Tap returned in late 2022, after a pandemic hiatus. We are grateful to our partners at Schlafly. When we returned in person, we moved the gathering to the Tap Room downtown, because the rooms have large airspace. In 2023 we are looking to gather monthly again. Theology on Tap seeks to create a “low pressure” environment for conversations about faith, ethics, politics, and life today. Join us and bring friends!

- November 2022: Kelly Latimore “All Saints”
 - Iconographer Kelly Latimore on the feast of All Saints. Kelly created the icon “Mama” at Holy Communion, which has received national press attention. (Check out this article in the magazine Christian Century by our own Bob Lowes). Kelly says: “In some icons I wish to embrace the traditional forms and image but for many icons the image needs re-shaping, re-imagining, and re-wondering. There are icons here that people may find theologically unsound and wrong, or for others, helpful and inspiring. I think both reactions are important. My hope is that these icons do what all art can potentially do, which is, to create more dialogue.
- December 2022 Cbabi Bayoc “Rise Up”
 - Cbabi Bayoc, the artist behind our new Rise Up window joined us. Cbabi led a discussion about art, inclusion, representation, and stained glass. Senior Warden Rudy Nickens interviewed Cbabi about his practice, his faith, and his hopes. Unfortunately we weren’t able to record this session, but you can listen in on this past summer’s conversation about the window on NPR’s St. Louis on the Air.
